DR. W. KOEHLER,
Surgical & Mechanical Dentist,
Deutscher Zahnarzt,

TAKES PLEASURE in announcing to the citizens of Portland and vicinity that he is now permanently located in this city, and fully prepared to perform all the operations belonging to the Dental Department in the most competent and professional manner, in Surgical Treatment as well as the construction of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, in the newest and most improved methods, on the following materials:

GOLD, PLATINA, SILVER, RUBBER, AMBER, or CORALITE BASE,

at the option of the Patient.

The Extraction of Teeth by his method is new to any other, as the patient need not undergo the unpleasant, and dangerous state of inhaling Chloroform, but will have his teeth extracted without that horrid pain which he generally treats to the last endurable moment of suffering.

All operations warranted to give satisfaction, or no charge will be made.

Special attention paid to the regulation of children's teeth.

Difficult Dental Operations particularly solicited.

Ladies waited on at their residences if desired.

References of Physicians and Families given at the Office.

Prices will be moderate in all cases.

H. H BLACK,
DENTIST,
(Late Prof. of the Cincinnati College of Dentists,)
Office and Laboratory, No. 10, Alder street, Four Doors from Front, Portland, Ogn.

HAVING secured the services of Dr. C. H. MACK, formerly of New York city, and late of St. Louis, who is an experienced and skillful Dentist, I am now prepared to manufacture and insert Artificial Teeth by the following methods, namely: Gold, Silver, Rubber, Amber, Porcelain Base, Gum Enamel, Rubber Attachment, Chrolite, Continuous Gum, Mica and Enameled Plate Work. Some kinds of this work is recommended above all others, and needs but an inspection to prove its superiority for cleanliness, durability and life-like appearance to any artificial teeth in use.

Filling and cleaning teeth. And all operations in Dental Surgery, either mechanical operative or surgical, performed in the most thorough and highly finished manner. None but the most permanent and finished operations performed, and no inducements to patients by low prices or roughly finished operations. I use no cement in filling teeth, and seek in price to make no competition with cheap Dentists; and desire the patronage of such persons only as wish those operations performed in the most perfect and skillful manner.

Operations that fail to give satisfaction need not be taken or paid for. Office hours from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. Indigent persons who are unable to pay full professional charges will call before and after office hours nov4tf

Napoleon in the Kremlin.

A writer in the Atlantic Monthly, in summing up the principal traits of the Czar Nicholas' mind, mentions the fact that the statue of Napoleon the Great is installed in the Kremlin at Moscow—in that place which it cost him half a million of men to visit. The following will be read with interest:

Alexander's successor, Nicholas I., had been known before his accession as a mere martinet, a good colonel for parade-days, wonderful in detecting soiled uniforms, terrible in administering petty punishments. It seems the story of stupid Brutus over again. Altered circumstances made a new man of him; and few things are more strange than the change wrought in his whole bearing and look by that week of agony and energy in climbing his brother's throne. The portraits of Nicholas the Grand Duke and Nicholas the Autocrat seem portraits of two different persons. The first face is averted, suspicious, harsh, with little meaning and less grandeur; the second is direct, commanding, not unkind, every feature telling of will to relish opposition, every line marking sense of Russian supremacy.

The great article of Nicholas' creed was a complete, downright faith in Despotism, and in himself as Despotism's apostle.

Hence he hated, above all thing, a limited monarchy. He told de Custine that a pure monarchy or pure republic he could understand; but that anything between these he could not understand. Of his former rule of Poland, as constitutional monarch, he spoke with loathing.

Of this hate which Nicholas felt for liberal forms of government there yet remain monuments in the great museum of the Kremlin.

That museum holds an immense number of interesting things, and masses of jewels and plate which make all other European collections mean. The visitor wanders among clumps of diamonds, and sacks of pearls, and a nauseating wealth of rubies and sapphires and emeralds. There rise row after row of jewelled scymitars, and vases and salvers of gold, and old saddles studded with diamonds, and with stirrups of gold,—presents of frightened Asiatic satraps or fawning European allies.

There, too, are the crowns of Muscovy, of Russia, of Kazan, of Astrachan, of Siberia, of the Crimea, and pity to say it, of Poland. And next this is an index of despotic hate,—for the Polish sceptre is broken and flung aside.

Near this stands the full-length portrait of the first Alexander; and at his feet are grouped captured flags of Hungary and Poland,—some with bloodmarks still upon them.

But below all,—far beneath the feet of the Emperor,—in dust and ignominy and on the floor, is flung the very Constitution of Poland—parchment for parchment, ink for ink, good promise for good promise—which Alexander gave with so many smiles, and which Nicholas took away with so much bloodshed.

And not far from this monument of the deathless hate Nicholas bore that liberty he had stung to death stands a monument of his admiration for straightforward tyranny, even in the most dreaded enemy his house ever knew. Standing there is a statue in the purest of marble,—the only statue in those vast halls. It has the place of honor. It looks proudly over all that glory, and keeps ward over all that treasure; and that statue, in full majesty of imperial robes and bees and diadem and face, is of the first Napoleon. Admiration of his tyrant is will has at last made him peaceful sovereign of the Kremlin.

United States Stock Secured Banks

The collection and disbursement of an annual direct tax of $200 000 000 it is asserted by the Eastern press, will require some species of circulating medium more abundant than gold and silver is likely to become The issuance of notes receivable for all Government dues is the plan proposed These promises to pay floating in the community it is calculated, will keep within a small fraction of par if they are proportioned to the actual demand for the payment of taxes There is also the plan of issuing Government notes on the security of interest bearing United States securities, which are to be given into the hands of banking institutions throughout the country each of which shall place upon these notes, for additional security against counterfeits, such devices as may be necessary to distinguish the notes of each institution Upon the prospect of the success of this scheme the New York Tribune says

We do not clearly perceive a necessity for any dealings between the Government and the Banks in creating and sustaining the National Currency Let Bank notes be gradually and quietly withdrawn from circulation through the agency of a progressively increasing tax or otherwise let their places be filled by a progressive issue of 'greenbacks' until at a fixed period not far distant, no other Paper Money than that of the Government shall be permitted to circulate and let the amount of this be constantly adjusted to the existing demand That is to say Let the Secretary of the Treasury be authorized, whenever "greenbacks" shall not be worth their face in coin, to buy them up by the issue of Exchequer bills or other short date issues of interest-bearing securities wherewith to redeem them at par; and let him whenever the market demands or will take more "greenbacks" at par, use them in meeting his obligations and buying up the securities aforesaid, thus by the purchase and sale of interest-bearing obligations, keeping those paying no interest but circulating as currency at exactly specie par Keep them at this point in New York and they will be fully equal if not better than specie in every part of the country, being preferable for purposes of remittance or exchange to coin And, with an adequate revenue and a diminishing debt, they might be kept at that point by very moderate purchases and sales of interest-bearing securities so long as care was taken to adjust the supply to the demand and not endeavor to float more currency than was really required by the business wants of the community

From this it will be seen that the scheme of giving the notes into the hands of the bankers is disapproved. For it is plain that if the demand for the notes to pay the national tax is fairly met, there will be but little difference between the greenbacks and the metallic currency To reduce it to practice, we will suppose that money is worth five per cent a year—the people need, say two hundred millions of this paper to make the payment of the taxes convenient for all parties, it is then plain that the Government is floating that amount of its debt without interest or in reality saving the interest on that amount, or ten millions a year. If this were given over into the hands of the bankers it would amount to giving them the interest on the amount of the notes each year, besides the interest on the deposit of stocks on which the notes were issued, thus stimulating and expanding private banking operations If these notes are to be issued, we desire the Government to have the advantage of their circulation, just as we are anxious that the difference between gold, paid out of the Sub-treasuries, and greenbacks may accrue to the benefit of the Government

Unless the periods between the payments of the national tax are made shorter, and the different kinds of taxes collected on different occasions, a large accession to the currency of the country will be needed, but we are in hopes that no such expedients will ever be required, and that the comparatively small advantage of floating a portion of the public debt will be given up for the greater gain—the inestimable excellencies of a solid currency of gold and silver.

GRASSHOPPER MINES —A citizen of Pike's Peak mines named George S Rawlings communicates to the Rocky Mountain News some information about the mines on the Grasshopper fork of the Missouri river Mr Rawlings and party discovered a gulch on Grasshopper about five miles long, with short gulches putting in on either side The latter are dry, but all contain gold in greater or less quantities The diggings are spotted, and the pay ranges from five to fifty dollars per day to the man Toward the foot of the main gulch the gold is fine scale, but it grows gradually coarser toward the head of the gulch Many of the claims are very rich and some of them are already worked out The three hundred feet of bar claims, owned by Mr Rawlings and nine others was worked out before they quit. At the last they had twelve feet stripping and no pay dirt except the rotten and shelly surface of the bedrock The gold brought in by Mr R is very fine dark yellow, and evidently nearly pure He was offered eighteen dollars per ounce in coin for it, and sold some at that price

The steamer sails at 7 o'clock this morning

News from the British Possessions and the North-West

We have files of Victoria papers to the 7th of January from which we take our summary of news

Wells Fargo & Co shipped $20,121 23 by the Pacific

The Eliza Anderson brought no mail from the Sound yesterday and Mr Kinch the present contractor, having failed to find a suitable line for the service the residents of that locality will have to forego the enjoyment of the usual mail luxury until the new arrangement be perfected The United States has been sadly humbugged in the matter of the Sound mail service for a long time back its contractors with the exception of the owners of the Eliza Anderson having almost invariably failed to fulfill their agreement —Chronicle 7th inst

Messrs Burton and Griffin came down from Williams creek, the former leaving that place on the 9th ultimo The snow on the creek was then eighteen inches deep but the weather was mild and favorable for carrying on business and a good number of companies were busily engaged ground sluicing, viz the Canadian, Steele's Curry's &c The Black Jack tunnel was yielding as largely as ever and the men would continue to work all winter Mr Griffen left in November last and before coming away had completed about one half of his new water ditch He intends resuming work upon it early in the Spring

There was a good stock of provisions at Williams Creek and prices were moderate —Colonist 5th inst

The Bute Columbian of the 31st ult says The weather in the upper country continues extremely mild and open At Lillooet there is a slight sprinkling of snow which fell a few days ago On the Pemberton Portage the snow is about inches deep, and on the Douglas Portage there is none The Lake steamers are making two trips a week Capt Goldring, with 20 men, has gone to work on the dam on Tennas Lake In Lillooet stocks are full E. J. Dodge & Co Nelson & Co, and P Smith & Co, have built large warehouses which are filled with goods

Prices are nominal flour 12c retail and other things in proportion The population of Lillooet is now about 500, composed in about equal parts of whites and Chinamen

The Victoria Chronicle of the 5th contains the following from the mines

At Yale all is quiet Passengers from there on the 2d report six inches of snow on the level ground Twenty inches fell in a day and a night a week previous One sleigh was running in the town Christmas and New Years passed off joyously and pleasantly

About one hundred Chinamen are working on the old worn out Fraser River bars There was no frost in the ground and the 'Johns' were doing well

Mr Peter C Dunley received a letter from Beaver Lake, written by his partner Mr Bellers Mr S writes that the small pox is making fearful ravages among both whites and Indians He says the country is like a vast hospital Forty eight Indians have died of the disease M C Davis, Brick' Lewis, and 'old man" Wright are all dangerously ill of the same complaint Capt Haseltine was slowly recovering Of fifty one male Indians of the Beaver Lake tribe, only three survived

Mr Humphries, the Cariboo expressman from the Forks of Quesnelle on the 14th ult arrived at Yale on New Years day He reports fine sleighing all the way down on the wagon road No teams were running over the road The weather is beautiful compared with previous winters At Steele's claim on Williams Creek the boys were ground sluicing; ditto at Hurd Curry's and the Canadian claims. The yield of gold from Black Jack was greater than ever

News from William Creek is to the 9th ult The Black Jack tunnel is yielding from twenty to thirty pounds of gold a day The boys will work all winter

Capt. Lowrie before reported sick of small pox at Lake La Hache is dead He was from one of the Eastern States and aged about forty years

MORE ABOUT THOSE CONTRACTS —A Walla Walla correspondent of the Lewiston Age says that Capt John Mullan telegraphed to his brother, L A Mullan, the following "We have the mail contracts awarded to us for the sum of twenty two thousand five hundred dollars" We would like to be informed by what right an officer in the military service, or any other branch of the national service has a right to be interested in contracts? We should like further to be informed why it is that these contracts are let in Washington without any advertisement, in relation to them, being published at the places where they are to be executed? We should be pleased, in addition, to know whether there is any intention to impose a fine on the contractor between this place and Dalles, for delinquency in the months of October and November last? Above all, we would like to know whether the Government cannot save money by giving publicity to the fact that routes are open to be bid for and thus inducing the closest possible competition? We do not ask these questions from captiousness, but with a desire to bring the operations of the Post Office Department in this country prominently before the people The operations of this branch of the public service interest every human being, who knows how to read and write and the proper management of it is one of the greatest elements of popularity the Government can have

CARIBOO MINES —The Victoria papers continue to tell most extraordinary stories of the yield of the Cariboo mines In one case somebody on some creek had taken out thirty pounds in one day, which may be so, but for the lack of golden evidences of the fact in so many cases we are compelled to take the reports with more than a grain of salt Even at this early season of the year hundreds are prepared to start for Cariboo, allured by the news that snow is only eight or ten feet deep and food at nearly starvation prices Another enticement to visit the frigid regions of British Columbia and Sukina is found in the pretty general prevalence of the small pox of the most malignant type This is the chances are pretty numerous that if a man escapes freezing or starving to death he will have the opportunity to die of a malady of all others the most loathsome

APPOINTMENT —J P Upshur of Indiana has been appointed Secretary of the Interior in the place of Mr Smith resigned Upshur was Assistant Secretary under Smith

Miscellaneous Paragraphs

The widow of Gen E W Hooper formerly Miss Jenny Davenport it is said is to marry Mr Secretary Chase

The winter promises to be very mild in Colorado Territory A drought is anticipated the coming season

Mr Ashley State Treasurer for California is still trying to pay Legal Tender Notes to the United States Assistant Treasurer Mr Cheesman while he is receiving gold from taxpayers

Col John McHenry of the 11th Kentucky volunteers has been dismissed the service for refusing to execute the new Articles of War which sets free all Africans coming within the lines of the army

Jim Mace was whipped by Tom King, by a scratch The mill was entirely in Mace's favor until King put in an Armstrong Gun Hit which knocked Mace out of time This for the benefit of the fancy

Col Bell of the 13th Illinois volunteers was dismissed from the army on charges of being absent from his command without leave when he was absent by order Secretary of War himself He was reinstated by Mr Stanton

All the political prisoners at Camp Babbitt Tulare county California, have been released on taking the oath of allegiance except Harrison the editor of the Tulare Register a secesh paper He refused to take the oath

Some secesh gentry recently disturbed a Union California cavalry while in parade by hallooing for Jeff Davis and Stonewall Jackson They were chased five miles arrested and put in the guard house which they thought was unconstitutional

An English gentleman at Vancouver Island proposes to hunt down the panthers about the city of Victoria which are depredating in that vicinity There is but one sport more exciting than hunting beasts of prey, and that is when beasts of prey hunt the hunters which is commonly the case when the sportsmen are new to the business

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION —About ten o'clock last night an attempt to commit murder was made in the upper part of this city A shot was fired through the window of a house named at the head of a gentleman seated within At the moment his head was turned so that the bullet entered the side of his face, and came out at the point of the chin, inflicting a slight but painful wound No arrest has been made, and suspicion has rested on no person

SERVES THEM RIGHT —All treaties with the Indians who murdered the whites in Minnesota, last summer, are to be annulled and the Indian annuities given to the sufferers among the white settlers Indians who have been faithful to their obligations are to be cared for It is an excellent and original plan

IMPORTANT DECISION.—In the County Court, on Saturday last, a case was decided of some importance to parties owning property in the city by deeds from the proprietors. W. L. Chittenden sued for an order on the administrator of D. H. Lownsdale, for a deed from him for some property, bought of D. H. Lownsdale, who had covenanted to convey after obtaining title from the United States. The order was granted. We hope to receive the opinion of the court for publication, as we learn that a large amount of property is involved in the same question. Col. Chapman was attorney for the plaintiff, and Williams, Gibbs & Huffman for the defendant.

THE IMPENDING COMBAT.—Some time since, a gentleman somewhat noted for his skill in the fistic ring proposed to fight any other man of his weight for a valuable pecuniary consideration. Upon the propriety of this transaction, we are forestalled from making any remarks by the following earnest protest:

PIONEER HOTEL, No. —,
12th of January, 1862.

Mr. Local News,—SIR:—Fearing that your great regard for the peace and morality of this town will tempt you to say something against the mill which is likely to occur between Mr. John Kelly, alias "The Spider," and Mr. John Sheppard, I hasten to protest against any interference that will prevent them from fighting their battles "in peace and quietness." The noble art of self-defense I hold to be one of the most useful known among men. It enables a fellow to polish off rough characters and test the condition of a man's blood if he is feverish for a fight. The Greeks, sir, were much given to this style of fighting, and it is from the frequent polishings which they inflicted on each other in the ring that they became the most polished people of antient or any other times. The Romans, who were rather on the cut and shoot, or would have been on the shoot if they had been possessed of fire-arms—were not near so elegant in their manners as the Greeks—all for the reason they neglected the only true means of polishing themselves. By heeding this error of the Romans, and imitating the Greeks, I have no doubt that in time we may become as celebrated as the brightest boxer at the Isthmian games, and thus shine forth a model of gentility as Greece was of ancient, nations.

Being the best man may win, and that no "Lightning Gun Hit" may knock either of us out and spoil the sport, I am yours to command. FISTICUS.

Before this brilliant argument in favor of the pugilistic art, we shrink from commenting on the impropriety of prize-fighting.

By reference to advertisement it will be seen that Chas Birnbaum will re-open his Dancing School in Armory Hall, on the 19th inst.

A GOOD WORD FOR BANKS.—It has become the fashion to doubt the military capacity of Gen. Banks, a man who has not been educated at West Point, even while the facts prove that

Fools will be fools
Despite the learning of all the schools.

Gen. Banks is one at whom the shafts of malice may have been oftenest directed; notwithstanding the many proofs of his genius in civil and military life. We look upon him as the very ablest civilian that New England has produced since John Adams, and the best officer since the time of Ward and Pepperell. The New York Herald, of the 11th of December, contains some eulogistic remarks of Gen. Banks, which we copy:

It has been said of General Banks, by those competent to judge, that he is the greatest political officer that has been taken from the walks of civil life. He possesses, also, what the Romans, in their superstition, deemed the highest and most necessary quality of a general—"good luck." He has been hitherto singularly felix, or lucky, in all his undertakings. At Cedar Mountain, during the short but unfortunate campaign of General Pope, he successfully withstood with his division the furious onslaught of the whole of Stonewall Jackson's rebel army, and his prudent and successful retreat along the valley of the Shenandoah, on a previous occasion, in which he brought off his army safely, even to its very last gun, is worthy of being compared to the famous retreat of Moreau, and is equal to that of Xenophon and his famous ten thousand in ancient history. Who can tell whether General Banks may not turn out, after all, to be the Napoleon of the age whom the nation has so long been looking for?

NOBLE SENTIMENTS.—Forney, in his Philadelphia Press of November 27th, takes those to task who wish to make political capital out of the good or bad fortunes of military men, in this language:

"In this age, God be thanked, no one man is necessary to the Republic, and he alone can achieve and hold its highest honors who proves the largest and most self-denying patriot. The statesman who thinks, the philosopher who theorizes, and the historian who writes, begin their reflections by discarding the small passions and the passing prejudices, and the little ambitions of the hour, and in the alembic of their brains preserve only the pure gold of devotion to the Republic. Principles, and the holy maxims which neither time nor trial can destroy, must adjust the mighty controversy. Men are nothing, and when, in the far off future, our posterity shall come to estimate the legacy of this war, they will either rejoice over it as the result of the disinterested patriotism of their fathers, or lament over it as the result of their weakness and their divisions.

GEN. MEAGHER.—Gen. Meagher refused to accept the resignations of some of his officers, who were disgusted at McClellan's removal, and expressed his own views of his duty and theirs in this language:

"For his own part, the Brigadier General will stand by his brigade to the last. So long as Heaven spares his life, he will be true to the brigade that has been true to him, that has been true to its oath, true to the high spirit as well as to the strict letter of the military law, true to the brighter history, the pride, and expectations of their noble, soldierly old race—the race of the O'Donnells of Spain, the MacMahons of France, the Nugents of Austria, the O'Neils, and Sarsfields. While a shred of the flag that symbolizes this race flies in the ravages of the battle, and fifty men are left to hold it high and haughty in the face of death, the Brigadier-General, should it be the will of God, shall be found standing firm and faithful at his post; and this determination, he is confident, animates and fires this moment every true heart in the Irish Brigade.

DOCTOR VAN ZANDT,

CONSULTING PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

Office, Corner of Washington and Sansome streets, San Francisco.

The GREAT SUCCESS of this CENTURY in the PRACTICAL MEDICINE.

The Restoration Perfect of Medicated Natural Electricity, now subservient to the Cure of all Known and Special Diseases.

That this principle successfully applied to the diseased states of the system, to improve the quality of the blood by quickening its circulation, to aid the digestive organs, to equalize the temperature of the human body. It is a part of that great principle of vitality known as nervous influence, and is beautifully used in curing diseases of action.

Too Much Cannot be Said

in its praise, for it is highly probable that in health there is an exact equilibrium of the Electric principle, and should this perfect and sublime equipoise of health be broken—should the body be negatively or positively electrified—should the current be checked, and there be a war of forces going on in the system. The needle is moving, and in case that the cause of the cold should be perceptible to remedial agents, we may hope to restore and

Awaken the Magnetic Life within us

The original and sympathetic nerve current. Believing as I do in a force in this great magnetic or electrical intensity of the earth, with its influence upon our bodies in health and disease, I am led to take advantage of the Press, through which to awaken attention to the subject, that good may come to all.

No Compromise with Disease.

Give the body strength, and nature will relieve herself of the load of disease. The stomach, liver, heart, kidneys and all the natural functions are aided by ELECTRICAL Action, and it cures the aged, the infirm, the nervous, the impaired, the mental body, the appetite and the invalid lover under its benign influence.

To the Ladies of California.

Dr. Van Zandt's success with complaints of women, both in family and office practice, is owing to his correct views of the origin of all their maladies. Ladies can consult him with entire confidence, as he is a specialist upon human life. He is giving himself the only medical education that legislation in California will permit. He is successful in removing with ease which is the peculiar province of the sex. The high appreciation of their delicately attuned nervous organism, together with their great sympathetic life, renders him equally able to assuage those silent complaints which they bear so patiently and so long. Yet social disquietude need no longer affect our home circles; for he can awaken the stricken energies; restore the wonted simplicity of the soul; awaken the medullar body and expel gases arrest the serious which cause so much anxiety; calm those restless nights which have so long

Baffled the Skill of Physicians.

Develop appetite, life and animation. Expel nervous headache, sinking at the stomach, wandering pains, wasting away of strength, extreme debility and listlessness, heaviness, stupidness, unpleasant dreams and that general depression of life's powers, which go to render four-fifths miserable and diseased. Dr. Van Zandt, with his new method of combining the Electro-Galvanic current, together with his remedial measures, which are adapted to the nature of Cold Cure, will assure you of a complete and radical recovery of all bodily and mental infirmities, and will restore you to usefulness, and spare you a blessing to your family and society.

All the world over wherever disease exists, whether special to the soil and climate or common to all parts—epidemic or casual acute or chronic, contagious or miasmatic—it is necessary to restore the ELECTRO-GALVANIC equilibrium, especially in California, as it is to give fuel to the starving. This treatment is based upon a universe of facts extending through many years, and verified by hundreds of patients; so that in pursuit of science, morality of experience, as result of any well known cause, rests upon more sure and unassailable foundations than those which underlie the world-wide reputation of Electricity for the cure of nervous states of the body, faulty digestion, mental and physical debility or prostration, coughs, asthma, wandering pains of a rheumatic, gouty or mercurial character, and all forms of disease, the result of scrofula or cachectic habit of body.

None Need Despair of Relief.

If you have ulcers which will not heal—wens that cannot be removed—tetter body which you cannot shake off—loss of hair which you cannot regain—impression of spots which weigh you down—weakness that keeps you sleeping—business that languishes for want of energy—a cold which no society can fill—suspicion which no assurance can allay—Go to Dr. Van Zandt, for his great success and the safety with which he administers his new method of electrical excitation, together with his remedies, which are adapted to the requirements of climate and constitution, will secure you of a complete and radical removal of all bodily and mental infirmities, within the scope of science and man to remove.

The Eye and Ear Diseases.

It must not be forgotten by the eye and ear sufferers that Dr. Van Zandt has made these afflictions an especial study, and that he is the only Surgeon in our State who has a diploma for that branch of practice. Very many of the eye and ear troubles are purely deranged nervous actions, and are cured by his electro-galvanic battery—as amaurosis, squinting, cataract, floating specks before the vision, twitching of the eyelids, nervous deafness, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, giddiness, etc. All operations successfully done on these delicate organs of sense.

DR. BAKER'S
PAIN PANACEA.

Is composed entirely of healing gums, and vegetable oil and herbs. It is perfectly safe for the most delicate to use. I can most sincerely say that I have never known any, however delicate, to be injured by it in the least. I will continue to ask the afflicted, who have not used it, to try it for the following diseases: If they are not satisfied with its healing properties, the money will be cheerfully returned by the agent where the medicine is for sale.

If you have pain in the stomach or bowels, try a dose of Pain Panacea internally, bathe externally over the parts affected, and you will at once restore the proper action and relieve the pain.

If you have a Bruise or Wound, bathe it well with the Pain Panacea four times a day. It will relieve the pain, and take out all the poison, and heal the wound in a short time.

If you are suffering from Neuralgia or Rheumatic Pains, apply the Pain Panacea freely, and take a dose of it internally, morning, noon and night; it will not only cure the pain, but will remove the cause of the disease.

If you have the Dyspepsia, and your food distresses you, your stomach after eating, take a dose of Pain Panacea after each meal.

If you have a Cankered or Sore Mouth or Throat, apply the Pain Panacea, to the affected parts, and gargle the mouth or throat three or four times a day.

If you have the Diarrhœa, or a relaxed state of the bowels, take a dose of Pain Panacea, and they will soon be restored. If you have a painful swelling, bathe the parts freely, and you will soon relieve pain, and the swelling will be reduced.

If you have a severe tooth-ache, apply the Pain Panacea on a piece of cotton and bathe gum at the same time; it will stop the pain instantly.

If you have a pain in the Breast, Side, Back or Kidneys, bathe parts affected morning and night; at the same time take a dose of the Panacea internally.

If a Mother has a caked breast, apply the Panacea as hot as it can be borne.

If you feel chilly or cold, as though you were going to have a fever, take a dose of Panacea.

If you have a wound, cut, or galls upon your horse, apply the Pain Panacea; it will take out all the inflammation and heal the sore in a short time.

Love me little more than need
For I rather covet
I am well bid with one
And a little in the end
Is enough well to intend,
For [illegible] elf after friend
Love me little love me long etc

'Say thou love me while thou live
I to thee my love will give,
Never leaving till I leave
While that life on lures
Nay and after death in sooth
I to thee will keep my truth
As now when in my May of youth
This my love assures

For the land or for the sea,
Lasting evermore
Love me little love me long etc

'Winter's cold or summer's heat
Autumn's tempest on it beat
It can never know defeat
Never can rebel
Such the love that I would gain,
Such the love I tell thee plain
Thou must give or woo in vain
So I take farewell
Love me little, love me long,
Is the burden of my song

OBSTRUCTIVES —The Rocky Mountain News of December 11th gives a very excellent description of two classes of men who seriously obstruct the advancement of all new countries The reader will see that the descriptions below fit a great many in this State

First—To those 'light weights forever posing themselves on the crest wave of emigration; men who care for nothing be ause they have a stake in nothing, men who e chew education and whatever tends to culture and roll semi barbarism, as a sweet morsel, under their tongues, men who seek in a new country, not the fruits of virtue and toil, but rather the leakings of lawlessness and licentiousness When these men are curbed in, choked down and thrust out, or thoroughly subdued, the first stratum of a well organized frontier society is formed These men are the rattlesnakes of social life on the frontier—they have poisoned fangs, but they also have warning rattles

Second—To a class of men, if possible, more injurious. We may style them the 'quartz mills" of a new country, men who intend to pound and grind out of its population gold enough to satisfy their avarice, and then leave the debris to its fate, and seek some suburban retreat, in the polite and cultivated east, and there fatten on their spoils To these men a new country is a sponge, to be first squeezed, and then used to clean themselves from the claims of eastern creditors of the taint of afore time poverty Such men are easily known by their fruits They are always horror-struck at any proposed taxation for grading streets, building bridges and sidewalks, school houses, court houses, water works, lighting the streets, buying fire engines, or anything which may tend to wrench money out of their hands, and fix it for the use and benefit of the community.

ANALYSIS OF CHARACTER —A civil engineer, who had been employed in railroad enterprises with Gen McClellan, gives this opinion as to the leading trait of his mind

McClellan is the man for fortifications and intrenchments, but he is too slow and timid for field operations. I know him well, and have had good opportunities for gauging his capacity As a civil and military engineer, Gen. McClellan has no superior in this country. The resources of his mind are inexhaustible, his skill unapproachable, his patience ever-enduring He will build you a viaduct, sir—he may be a great while about it—but he will, nevertheless, build you one which, when it is finished, will be a marvel of strength and beauty, the wonder and admiration of all beholders While engaged in its construction, and up to the last moment of its completion, his confidence in his plans and workmanship will know no wavering, and yet, when the critical moment for the first crossing over has arrived, when the train with its steam up and cars full of passengers is impatiently awaiting the signal to go ahead, McClellan would hesitate to give the word, from fear that the whole superstructure would tumble into atoms, and would perhaps beg for a day or two's further time, for the purpose of making one more reconnoissance of the work

STUART'S RAID —Orpheus C Kerr supposes the rebel Stuart to be re-crossing the Potomac after his raid into Pennsylvania, and at the same time calling back to the Mackerel soldiers on the bank of the river

"I did not intend this as a permanent invasion," says the impious Confederacy as he re-mounted his go-cart and turned his geometrical Arabian towar i the water again 'but I have just married a daughter of South Carolina—one of two twins—and reckoned that I needed some things to set up housekeeping Farewell, foul Hessian,' says the Confederacy, as he splashed through the water on the opposite bank—'fare thee well, and tell your fiendish ruler that it is somewhat impossible to conquer the sunny South"

The Mackerel chap gazed thoughtfully after the go cart as it disappeared on the other side of the balmy Awlkwret stream and says he "Rail on, my erring brother, but if you'd only stayed here one more week, you might have escaped thus for seven whole days Had the army been insufficient to secure you," said the Mackerel to himself, 'had the army been insufficient to secure you why, there's the police"

ASSAILED BY HIS FRIENDS —The Rev Henry Ward Beecher lately took occasion to prove, to his own satisfaction, the impossibility of elevating negroes to an equality with whites For this offense to the African public sentiment, the Anglo African, the New York free-negro organ, pitches into Beecher rough shod, as witness the following:

Yet there is some allowance to be made in the case of Mr Beecher He is a born rowdy, he is by nature a 'subterranean' after the strictest sect of the Mike Walsh school, he is linked with the grovelling instincts of the Democracy by affinities which grace has not yet overcome Hence, when a negro comes up before his excited imagination, he only sees something to butt against, as the maddened bull in the Spanish arena These peculiarities speak out in his gait and manner in the street, where we never meet him without the mental exclamation, (before we have recognized him) 'There comes a stupendous rowdy who must have been on a batter' last night'

How Linseed and Cotton Seed Oil and Oil Cake are Made

The cultivation of flax belongs to the age of homespun and has gone by as a general crop in this country Fifty years ago it was common on almost every farm and the brake, the hatchel, the swinging board and knife, were as much farming tools as the dung fork and the plow In doors were the spinning wheel for flax and the loom where the linen and tow cloth was made for summer wear Flax seed was then abundant and oil mills for pressing the seed were to be found at convenient centers But many of the present generation have never seen such an establishment and have no idea of the process of making linseed oil Though flax is still raised in this country in particular localities, the crop does not meet our demands Large quantities of seed are imported mainly from Russia England, and the British East Indies In the year 1855, over a million bushels were brought to this country from the British East Indies alone

In making the oil, quite a variety of machinery is used—more or less expensive according to the enterprise and capital of the manufacturer The seed is first passed through iron rollers to be crushed or ground One of these rollers is made to revolve more rapidly than the other, which subjects each seed to a pulling as well as a crushing process The meal is taken from the mill to the chasers where it is subjected to another crushing process more severe than the first The chasers are two large circular stones about five feet in diameter and eighteen inches thick, rolling upon a third stone, in the manner of an old fashioned bark and cider mill These heavy stones start the oil from the meal and to keep it from adhering to the chasers, it is moistened with water

The meal is next put into an iron cylinder which is kept revolving over a fire until the water is evaporated Much of the skill in the art of making oil depends upon this heating process It must not be scorched, and yet wants to be brought up to a high temperature, so that it will readily give out its oil The presses are of various structures some of them patented, and others not open to public inspection In the one that we saw the vats or hoops, holding about two bushels each, were placed opposite each other against two immense beams or uprights, made fast in the foundation of the building The followers were forced down upon the meal by two large levers worked by hydraulic power The meal is kept under pressure about an hour, and the two presses work up about ninety six bushels of seed every twenty four hours The mill is kept running night and day for six days in the week The product is not far from two gallons of oil to a bushel of seed, a little more or less, according to the quality of the seed and the skill in pressing — The cakes as taken from the press are some times sold by the ton without grinding They are generally exported in this form Where there is a market in the vicinity of the mill, the cakes are put under the chasers, and ground into meal, bagged, and sent to the feed stores The price of the cake is from thirty to forty dollars a ton, ground into meal, it retails at about two dollars a hundred pounds This is the favorite feed for fattening stock with the British farmer, and ought to receive more attention among us

The process of making the cotton seed oil and cake is nearly the same The seed of the Upland cotton is surrounded with a husk to which the cotton adheres It is covered with a soft down after it leaves the gin, and in this condition it is purchased from the planter The seed makes better oil and better meal when it is deprived of this hull and down There are several patents for decorticating the seed One is a stone mill in which the seed passes between rough surfaces and the hulk is rubbed off Another is a steel mill doing the work more perfectly After the hulling, the treatment of the seed is the same as for linseed The yield of oil is less, being about ninety gallons to a hundred bushels of the Sea Island or two gallons to fifty six pounds of the hulled cotton seed The Sea Island seed does not need hulling

The cotton seed oil is comparatively a new article It has not yet a steady commercial value The meal is growing in favor as an article of fodder It is adapted to the same uses as the linseed meal, and is by many thought to be as valuable, though it sells for about twenty five per cent less The manure made from animals fed upon it, is richer in ammonia than that made from any other kind of stall feeding There is already a considerable demand for it in England, and it cannot be long before the export will exceed that of the linseed oil meal
